The extradition case against George Godin, the murderer who is wanted in Montana, was tried to-day at Regina and the extradition granted. The prisoner cannot be taken home for fifteen days. Sheriff Hathaway will return to Helena and send a man for the murderer.

The municipal nominations take place throughout Manitoba to-day. Midvey and Ryan are candidates for the Winnipeg mayoralty with chances in favor of the latter.

Several Dakota farmers have had horses and cattle seized as the result of the mounted police patrolling southern boundary of Manitoba.

GENERAL CANADIAN NEWS.

Great Reception to O'Connor in Toronto—40,000 People Turn Out.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Toronto, Dec. 4—William O'Connor, the oarsman, received a grand reception last night on his return from Washington. Fully 40,000 people lined the streets to the Horticultural Gardens where an address was presented accompanied by a cheque for $1000 and $300 in gold. The reception surpassed that given to Hanlan on his return from the Centennial.

Merriton, Ont., Dec 3—This morning a fatal collision occurred in the Grand Trunk Railway yard in this place, resulting in the death of three trainmen between an engine attached to a caboose and a coal train. Fireman Michael Sherry was extricated from the ruins with a great gash across his chest and lived only two hours. He leaves a motherless family at Niagara Falls, Ontario. The body of driver James Williams was taken from the wreck cut in two. He was one of the oldest and ablest drivers on the Great Western Railway division, and leaves a family at Niagara Falls. The remains of brakeman Allan were found badly mutilated.

Ottawa, Dec. 3—The sitting of the arbitrators commenced here to-day. The same arbitrators and counsel were present as appeared in the case in British Columbia some time ago. A motion was put by order of the Queen's Counsel for the government to have the evidence of Sir Charles Tupper, taken in London, England, by a commission. Argument on this motion was postponed until Wednesday. The evidence of H. P. Bell, a civil engineer from British Columbia who had gone over the road for the government was then taken. He appeared favorable to the government, contending that the railway was built in every way creditable to the resident engineers. The case will be adjourned on the 12th. Robinson, Q. C., who also appears for the government, told your correspondent to-night that it is likely arbitration will sit all next summer.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau has yielded to the advice of his friends to go to Europe for the benefit of his health. Accompanied by Mrs. Chapleau he will sail from New York for Havre, afterwards proceeding to Spain, where he will place himself under the care of Dr. Guyon.

Hamilton, Dec. 4—This afternoon Lord Stanley opened the Art Exhibition at the drill shed where an immense crowd was gathered. The vice-regal party left Hamilton this evening en route to Ottawa.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.

Total Eclipse of the Sun to Occur Jan. 1st—Seen in Victoria.

A total eclipse of the sun will occur on Jan. 1st, 1889, and will be viewed by Victorians with great clearness. Mr. Garrett T. Serviss, the secretary of the American Astronomical Society, New York, a well known lecturer and writer on astronomy, was asked what there was peculiar and interesting in this eclipse which is to occur on the 1st and for the observation of which Harvard University has already fitted out a costly expedition to go to the Pacific coast.

"Well, in the first place," said Mr. Serviss, "an eclipse of the sun is always in the highest degree interesting, because there is hardly any phenomenon of the heavens, at once so startling so beautiful, and so awe-inspiring. This is perhaps not popularly understood, because the number of persons who have ever seen a solar eclipse is small. Probably the majority of astronomers themselves have never seen one. You understand, of course, that I am speaking of a total eclipse; millions have seen partial eclipses. But in order to see a total eclipse you must be somewhere along a line only a few miles wide, from which the moon, at the moment that it comes between the sun and the earth, will be exactly in line between the eye of the observer and the center of the sun. Then the moon for a few minutes will completely cover the sun, shutting off its light and heat so effectually that chickens go to roost, and the observers frequently shiver with the sudden lowering of the temperature of the air. Then, too, with startling suddenness those great and mysterious banners of the sun, that astronomers call the corona, are seen displayed in the sky around the hidden orb like vast streamers and enormous spreading beams of nebulous light. Occasionally with the naked eye, and always with the telescope, fiery red masses like huge tongues of flame may be seen projecting beyond the black edge of the moon at various points around the border of the hidden sun.

THE PATH OF THE ECLIPSE.

"Unfortunately the line of totality, which is never the same for two eclipses, has a way of selecting remote regions of the earth to be favored with the wonderful and magnificent views that it has to offer, and on this occasion the United States is peculiarly favored in having even a part of the line running across its territory.

"The path of the total eclipse, as it is technically called, will begin near the centre of the group of the Aleutian Islands, which stretch across from Alaska to Kamschatka, and sweeping southward and eastward over the Northern Pacific Ocean will reach the continent a little north of San Francisco. It will continue on in a broad curve turning northward, and crossing Nevada, Idaho and Montana will end far up in Canada about half way between the western end of Lake Superior and Hudson Bay. While only observers along this line will see the sun totally eclipsed, a partial eclipse will be seen all over America. In New York the eclipse will be just beginning at sunset. The further west you go the better chance you will have to see it."

MR. BEAVEN'S REPLY TO MR. W. WILSON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR:—Sunday morning's Colonist contains another letter from Mr. W. Wilson, and before dealing with it I owe an explanation to you and the reading public for occupying so much of your space. It came to my knowledge that during the recent proceedings in the courts between the Hon. Mr. Dunsmuir and your paper, that an attempt had been made to couple my name with his to what I consider my disadvantage. I think all will admit that the character of a public man is important to him and those he represents. I admit that he must expect public criticism and often misrepresentation from a portion of the press, but this matter occurred in court. I hold that a representative who improperly uses the influence and power conferred upon him by the electors for his personal ends should be exposed. Feeling that I had wrongly suffered by the occurrence in Court I addressed you, and Mr. W. Wilson replied, although I am at a loss to understand how the matter affected him. I do not intend to give his buffoonery or personalities more than a passing notice; they could be refuted by quoting his own words and the occurrence in Court; if he is candid it is evident that there are some things about this grant to the Foster Co. that he "does not know," or has forgotton. As a witness he proves useful, if credence can be placed upon his evidence, and we can extract a modicum of sense from the volume of nonsense. Briefly summarized, Mr. Wilson says: That as to the grant to the Foster Co., I opposed it and "objected to government aid for the road," and that the Hon. Mr. Dunsmuir "took no part whatever in the matter." As regards myself, this is what I claim. Assuming, for argument's sake, that Mr. Wilson's definition of Mr. Dunsmuir's position is correct, it does not require a very astute mind to see that the action of a man who opposed a thing and the inaction of another man who remained neutral could not be correctly classed as identical. I claimed that my opposition was in a measure successful. Mr. Wilson admits that the company applied for $3000 and only received $2000. I think that substantiates my statement. I also said in brief that it was suggested that a deputation, principally composed of the members of the legislature who were stockholders, should wait upon the government with reference to a grant, that I declined to join and the matter dropped. Mr. Wilson does not directly contradict this; but rather evades the question and mentions that Mr. D. W. Higgins, M. P. P., did form one of such a deputation. I also referred to a proposed vote of censure upon me; Mr. Wilson says this was meant as a joke. So that practically he proves nearly all I claim as to my own conduct.

As regards the nonsensical portion of this letter I laugh at it upon the same principle as one enjoys the witticisms of a clown at a circus. Mr. Wilson refers to the historical swing bridge, and claims that the railway bridge from Store street is the same as he advocated when in the Legislature. I cannot agree with him, as the swing bridge of past history was to start from the foot of Johnson street; it was to accomodate horses and wheeled vehicles, and foot passengers; and practically do away with a large portion of the traffic on the Rock Bay and Point Ellice bridges. I am not aware that wheeled vehicles, other than cars, and locomotives, can cross the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway bridge. I think it will be now admitted that the Wilson letters' present the same relative aspect as a lemon which has passed through a squeezer, the useful portion has been extracted and the useless rubbish can be cast aside. Mr. Wilson shows himself too ardent a worshipper at the feet of the golden calf to be accepted as an unbiased exponent of Dunsmuirism. I am, yours obediently,

ROBERT BEAVEN.

SALISBURY'S COMPARISON.

The Northwest Rebellion With the Condition of Ireland.

London, Dec., 2.—Lord Salisbury, speaking at Glasgow of the treatment of political prisoners in Ireland, said that the government's action confirmed the general practice of mankind. He added that "five years ago there was a half-breed in Canada called Riel who rebelled and attempted to spread disolation and misery in that fruitful, smiling land. It was his second offense and was he treated according to this maudlin, effeminate doctrine? No: on the contrary, the Canadian Government representing the people if ever a government did, simply hanged him. This accorded to the rule of modern societies, and accorded to the action of the Imperial Government in Ireland." Speaking at Birmingham, he hoped that negotiations would be renewed which would lead to a successful conclusion of the fisheries dispute. He knew the great desire of the Canadian people to live on neighborly terms with the people of the United States, and hoped that a similar feeling of amity prevailed in the States. He urged mutual combination with the colonies for Imperial defence. No fiscal arrangement could be forced upon the colonies. Regarding Ireland he contended that it would be dangerous to grant the Irish more than provincial chambers. The experience of Quebec showed that if a province was made too strong, it could squeeze money out of the central treasury beyond what was just generally. He hoped that the selection of Sir Henry Norman, one of the ablest servants of the Crown, as the Governor of Queensland, would settle the dispute. He had reason to know that Canada had not followed the example of other colonies in urging the Colonial Office to accede to the demand for a colonial voice in the selection of governors. On the contrary the Canadian official opinion, he believed, inclined to the Imperial view, that if the governor is to act as an arbitrator between parties, he must not owe his position to colonial political factions.

EDM'ND YATES' LETTER

The Emperor Frederick and the Queen—Economic Reform by Royalty.

Salisbury in Edinburgh—The Crossing Question—John Bright Sinking.

New York, Dec. 4—Edmund Yates' London cable to the Tribune, says those who see them together say that nothing is more touching than the absolute unselfishness and devotion of the Queen to the Empress Frederick. The Queen's one thought from morning to night is to minister to her daughter's comfort and to endeavor to diminish her grief. The smallest wish of the Empress is attended to and carried out with most affectionate assiduity. The Empress is looking very worn and tired, and sleeps badly, but the rest and quiet of Windsor which she enjoys thoroughly, and which she and her daughters never weary of expatiating on are already beginning to have good effect on her health and spirits. There was something very touching in the visit of the Queen and Empress Frederick to Stafford on Tuesday. Rain was falling in torrents as they alighted from the carriage which brought them from Paddington. The Empress wore a heavy cerf of crape which Prussian etiquette prescribes. Lady Churchill, also a widow, carried a large cross of white flowers which the Queen had prepared with her own hands. Lord Tarbat received them at the door and they at once followed him up stairs to the room where the Duchess was lying and the Queen placed the cross beside the body of her dead friend. The recollection of the last visit she paid to Stafford House, in the company of her husband caused the Empress to burst into tears. Both she and the Queen remained for some time in the green library, where the Queen spoke many words of womanly sympathy to Lord and Lady Stafford. Lord and lady Tarbat, Lord Ronald Gower and Lady Alexander Leveson Gower who were there and expressed a strong hope that the Duke of Sutherland would quickly return to England.

There is no attempt to disguise the object of the economical reforms in the Royal household. It has become clear that no parliament will sanction grants to the grandchildren of the Queen, excepting only children of the Prince of Wales. So Her Majesty considers it her imperative duty to save as much money as possible in order that all her descendants may be adequately provided for by herself. It is quite certain that the Duke of Connaught and Princess Beatrice will be the Queen's principal heirs. Her Majesty has three other families to look after, namely, those of the late Duke of Albany, of Princess Christian and of the late Princess Alice.

Lord Salisbury's visit to Edinburgh has been an unqualified triumph from beginning to end. There has not been a hitch, and the meeting on corn exchange was as enthusiastic and representative as the strongest Tory could desire. But the most interesting and striking incident of the whole programme was the presentation of the addresses of 62 Unionist associations in the same building on Friday in the presence of over 6000 people. Those who know Scotland know that these vast meetings and enthusiastic assemblages are the sign of a change that will be as lasting as the so-called conservatism from which they are a reaction.

Lady Burdette-Coutts' parties are always successful. Nothing could have been pleasanter than her dinner reception of Wednesday evening. Among the guests in Stratton street, Lady Galway was conspicuous in black diamonds with her famous crutch stick. Mrs. Phelps, wife of the American minister, looked charming in gray and gold. Lord Clan-William related Irish stories with much Irish humor. Mr. Edward Stanhope Ashmead Bartlett discussed the new chief commissionership. The Rev. Henry White, of Savoy Chapel, stated that out of the 1500 couples which he had assisted to join together, only one pair had found marriage a pleasure.

BRIGHT SINKING.

London, Dec. 4—Bulletins from Rochdale give little hope for Mr. Bright. The chronic disease increases and the resisting power of the patient is nearly exhausted.

FINANCE REPORT.

London, Dec. 4—American stocks have been firm with influential buying; also the covering of starts. Erie, Lake Shore, Union Pacific and Norfolk, preference, have been in chief demand. Reading has been unusually dull. A favorable statement with regard to the St. Paul is expected in a few days, undoubtedly the fruit of President Miller's visit.

RUSSIAN INTRIGUES.

London, Dec. 4—It is reported that Russia has recalled her ambassador from Teheran owing to the refusal of Persia to grant an exequatur to a Russian consul at Meshed. Russia has for a long time endeavored to establish a recognized agent at Meshed, which is situated near the frontier, is the harbor of refuge and centre of agitation. To formost the discontent of Afganistan, Russia has been constantly baffled in her efforts by England, who seeks to keep her rival out of a port from where she could conduct her intrigues in Afganistan with dangerous effect.

JOSEPH THE GOOD.

Vienna Dec. 4—The Emperor has written to Count Von Taafe, President of the Council, saying it has given him great pleasure for the people throughout the empire to have acted in accordance with his advices on observing the anniversary of his ascension to the throne by devoting money to charity rather than to pompous fetes. In this they have given another proof of their loyalty.

WHITECHAPEL MURDERER.

London, Dec. 3—Tumblety, who was arrested on suspicion of being the Whitechapel murderer, and then discharged for lack of evidence, is missing. It is supposed that he sailed for New York.

MRS. PARSONS.

London, Dec. 3—Mrs. Parsons, widow of Parsons the executed Chicago anarchist, sailed to-day for New York. In a speech last night she paid a glowing tribute to Herr Most, and said the New York police had no idea what a mine he was building under their feet. The death of the Chicago anarchists would be avenged in blood.

RAILROAD TROUBLES.

New York, Dec. 4—It is officially announced that all negotiations for the settlement of railroad troubles, west and southwest of Chicago, have been broken and the clearing house has fallen through. The committee, headed by President Winslow, of the St. Louis and San Francisco road is still in existence, but has not yet secured any new plan.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

London, Dec. 4—In the Parnell Commission to-day, Thomas O'Connor, son of a farmer near Castle Island, was on the witness stand, called by the Times. He swore that Timothy Harrington, member of Parliament, paid Brosuom and himself the sum of seven pounds to commit outrages in 1880.

A VIOLENT GALE.

London, Dec. 4—A gale of great violence prevailed to-day from the southeastward. In the channel of Dover a great number of vessels came in for shelter. At Ramsey, Isle of Man, many vessels took shelter in the bay but were only discernable at intervals owing to the dense cloud of spray. At Cardiff the French steamer Louis run into and sunk the bark Ermine, of Swansea. The sailing vessels McDonald, of St. John, and Beaconsfield, of Nova Scotia, were driven against the pier head and badly damaged. A dispatch last night says the fishing smack Henry Wesley, of Lowestoft, foundered in the North Sea with all hands.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

London, Dec. 4—The morning papers indulge in long editorials reviewing the President's message. The Standard resents the reference to Sackville by saying: "Cleveland's farewell message to Congress might have been a gracious, dignified composition if the President could only have effaced from his recollection the unsuccessful electioneering coups by which he sullied his otherwise honored record. Englishmen can afford to smile at such puerile nonsense, for even Cleveland's own countrymen will not pretend to take in good earnest vaporing of this kind. It were well enough while the presidential campaign was on, but it is an attempt to exhibit one of the half forgotten bits of stage furniture as a genuine work of art. There is no sense, no consistency in Cleveland's prospective account of a deplorable transaction. Sackville was technically wrong, no doubt. Mr. Russell Lowell and Mr. Phelps have committed themselves in the same way, though not in the same degree, a score of times in addresses which Englishmen have read with much edification, but not the smallest trace of resentment. It is not to one's interest to perpetuate bad blood."

GERMANS IN AFRICA.

London, Dec. 4—A dispatch from Zanzibar says: The attack of the Germans on Soodam has had the result of closing all routes which lead into the interior and communication is completely severed. Fears are felt for the Germans who left Pavapens on the day of the bombardment. There is nothing to prevent the natives from massacring them. The attitude of the natives on the island as well as on the mainland, is threatening.

BANK ROBBERY FRUSTRATED.

St. Thomas Ont, Dec. 4—Two of the best cracksmen in the country have been stopping in the city for the past few days and have been plotting for a stupendous robbery. The plot was given away by a third party who is a fugative from the United States, and who was approached by two men and asked to become an accomplice in the robbery of the Trader's Bank. The plan sketched out was to secure ingress by the cellar window and thence to the bank and force an entrance to the vault with gun powder. The police say the attempt would undoubtedly have been made had not the plot been given away.

THE NIAGARA SUICIDE.

Toronto, Dec. 4—The remains of Frederick Barber who committed suicide at Niagara two weeks ago, were buried yesterday. Instructions were received from England to bury the remains.

PROMINENT MONTREALER DEAD.

Montreal, Dec. 4—Patrick O'Brien, for over 15 years cashier of the Royal Insurance Co., died suddenly last night. He left the office apparently in his usual health at six o'clock and by 8 o'clock was a corpse. It is said his lungs were weak and that death resulted from a poisonous quantity of gas which the gas company has been furnishing for the last day or two and which induced spasms followed by internal bleeding.

WINDSOR HOTEL REPORT.

The annual report of the directors of the Windsor Hotel Co., issued to-day, shows a balance of $20,000 carried forward after paying the dividend. The stock is controled by Duncan McIntyre who holds over 600 shares, G. B. Benland 600, R. B. Angus 160, Hector McKenzie 300.

THE CROSSING CASE.

C. P. R. vs. Manitoba—No Judgment to be Delivered.

By Postal Telegraph.]

Ottawa, Dec. 4—It has been announced that the Supreme Court will deliver judgment in the Crossing Case on the 14th, but I have direct authority for the statement that no judgment will be delivered at all. There is no suit at law and only a request by the railway committee for an opinion of the court not only on the merits of the case, but on the mere question of law, as limited by Sir John Thompson, and the court simply make a report to the Minister of Justice for the information of the Privy Council. The Government may or may not make it public just as they like and they may ignore the courts opinion, which, not being a judgment in a suit has no force of law and binds nobody. These being the facts there will be nothing to prevent the C. P. R. instituting a dozen law suits or taking out another injunction to hinder the building of the railway in the spring even supposing the Supreme Court goes in favor of the province, it will settle nothing and Manitoba may yet be fooled by both the C. P. R. and the railway committee. At least two of the judges of the Supreme Court resent a reference to them which is open to such an important conclusion as being in derogation of the dignity of the highest judicial body and doubtless their views are shared by other members of the court. It is an unquestionable fact at any rate that the conclusions of the court are merely advice to Messrs. MacDonald, Thompson, Pope and Carling that there will be no "judgment" and that these conclusions have no legal force or effect. Manitoba may well ask of this reference.

A STRANGE RECORD.

East Northumberland, the Ontario constituency recently carried by the Conservatives in a Dominion contest, has a peculiar record: In 1874 Mr. BIGGAR (Reform) was elected for East Northumberland over Mr. KEELER (Conservative) with a majority of 165. Being unseated, Mr. BIGGAR was again the Reform candidate, and he beat the Hon. James COCKBURN by 285. In 1878 Mr. KEELER was again the Conservative standard-bearer, and this time he beat Mr. BIGGS by 63 votes. In 1882 Cochrance (Conservative) was elected, beating CROUTER, a very weak man, by 278. The vote was COCHRANE, 207; CROUTER, 1,800. In 1877 COCHRANE'S vote was increased to 2,277; but Mr. MALLORY, who had been nominated by the Reformers, proved a very strong man, and he received 2,285 votes as declared by the returning officer. A re-count increased MALLORY'S majority to 12; but a protest was entered, and the election was declared void. In December of last year COCHRANE was elected by a majority of 24, but he in turn was unseated. Again he has beaten Dr. MALLORY, his majority being 53. Whether or not there will be another contestation in the courts, to be followed by another contest at the polls, remains to be seen.

MUSICAL CULTURE.

The growth of musical culture in America has of late years received a fresh stimulus by the establishment and operation of several important institutions. Among these three occupy a prominent place—The American College of Musicians, the Music Teachers' National Association and the National Conservatory of Music. The first settlers along the shores of the Atlantic brought with them the English style of music, mainly religious. As religion had a great influence on the social life of the time, the service of song was soon made the occasion for little gatherings for practice during the week. The more gifted singers of the congregation formed choirs, and the choirs grew into singing schools for mutual instruction. In the course of time sacred concerts were given, and the harmonized psalm tune and anthem were introduced. Innovations were long frowned upon by the elders, and original composition did not flourish till for some time after the war of independence. Meantime, secular music was not entirely ignored. The English ballad was cultivated as at home in several of the colonies. Military companies could not well be trained without marches. Now and then even a drama was tried, which led the way to opera, as the anthem was followed by the oratorio. A hundred years ago BILLING'S music was suggested by the need of providing fresh pieces for the school, but a reaction ensued, owing to the objections of the more sedate to what they considered its too secular character. In 1815 a Handel and Hayden society was founded in Boston, and in 1818 the Messiah, and a year later, the Creation, were rendered before admiring audiences. In 1825 an Italian opera, Il Barbieri was performed for the first time in America, MALIBRAN being one of the cantatrici. The result was important. The works of ROSSINI, BELLINI, VERDI, MOZART, DONIZETTI, MEYERBEER, WEBER, GOUNOD and the other great masters gradually became familiar to American audiences. The generation that followed was one of continued progress. But it is during the last ten years that most has been effected. Not only in the New England and Central States, but in the South also and in the new rich West, the development in musical culture has been remarkable.

It is, however, in the teaching of music that the advance has been most marked. Every city on the continent has now schools in which instructions can be obtained in the highest branchese of the art. There is still, as one artist complained, a conflict between the sons and daughters of David, the throned singer and the host of the Philistines. But the competent musician and the cause of the best musical culture have a strong force of educated opinion on their side, and there is reason to hope that the ultimate triumph will be theirs.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

In commenting on the result of the recent presidential election the New York Daily Graphic says: "When President CLEVELAND in his famous message to Congress demanded a reform of the tariff, he furnished to the country a greater and more vital question for consideration and discussion than any other which had been before the people for twenty years. He swept aside the dead issues of the time and brought the democracy face to face with a great and important principle.

It was a courageous, daring and most manly movement, and while from a political standpoint this issue may have been the cause of Mr. CLEVELAND'S defeat, he has nevertheless won a victory great in its results and most important to the best interests of the nation. He has compelled attention to the fact that unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation and for this will generations of his countrymen rise up and call him blessed.

The democratic party gave to the president a most loyal and hearty support in his struggle for the eradication of the war taxes. It stood by him unflinchingly through the greatest and ablest canvass that has ever been made in this country. But a nation is not converted from old beliefs in a year. The tariff is one of our most cherished political dogmas. Perhaps the country was not educated to the point of promptly investigating the claims made for this political fetish, and this is why BENJAMIN HARRISON has been elected President of the United States.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The oldest incorporated business concern in the world is the Hudson Bay Company, which has had an existence for 225 years. The headquarters of the company are at Winnipeg, Man., and the bulk of the stock is held in England.

The number of immigrants passing through the Provincial Immigration Office at Montreal, during the present season has been 6,000. The class of immigrants, as a whole, has been far superior to any former year. Of the entire number about one-third found employment in the Eastern Townships, the balance locating in the city and suburbs.

The City of Glasgow, Scotland, is about building a second underground railway that will be 7 miles long. The inside width will be 26 feet, and the rails from 18 to 23 feet below the surface. The steepest grade is 60 feet per mile. The cost of the entire work and land will be about $5,600,000, and the road is expected to pay 6 per cent. on the outlay.

A gentleman in Brussels has shown unusual enthusiasm for the game of whist. In the course of a game his partner trumped the trick which he had already won by deep calculations and skill. Instead of swearing, as a gentleman would ordinarily have done in such circumstances a few times, he gave his unlucky partner twenty stabs in the ribs with a long knife and left him dead. This didn't cool his ardor for the game, for later in the evening he was found quietly playing in another cafe with some other friends. When his second partner learned the facts he expressed great satisfaction that the game should have been interrupted by the police.

At the annual dinner of the New York Chamber of Commerce Prof. Goldwin Smith, replying to the toast of "our relations with Canada" said "As a Canadian I have the greatest pleasure in responding to the toast. Such an expression of good will on the part of such a body of American citizens as the Chamber of Commerce of New York towards Canada would be welcome at any time, when there has been a little misunderstanding, not between the two communities, but among the diplomatists. As you have some gentlemen among you whose delight is to twist the tail of the lion, so we have some whose delight is to twist the feathers of the eagle, but their numbers is very small The fisheries dispute will be at rest by and bye, when the fisheries are common to us all."

Whatever opinions may be held as to the earlier political career of Lord Randolph Churchill, it cannot be denied that many of his later utterances, in Parliament and out, have the ring of true statesmanship. His references to the relations between Great Britain and the United States, in his speech at Paddington the other day, will commend themselves to the good judgment and feeling of the broadest minds in both countries. There is a special force in his hint that sufficient allowance has not been made for the action of the United States Government in the Sackville matter, in view of the time at which it occurred. It is undoubtedly true that to have postponed action would have been to render it useless so far as counteracting the effects of Lord Sackville's "inexcusable blunder" was concerned. It is hard to imagine a parallel case in English politics, but if such a thing were conceivable it is not impossible that a British Government might display equal energy. No words that oratory can use can exaggerate the horror and atrocity of a war between England and America, or the blameworthiness of those speakers and writers in both nations who wantonly stir up bad blood by "menaces, sneers and sulks." Nor can there be any doubt that whatever tends to make the English and American nations firm allies, and to produce a "desirable friendship between the English speaking races," tends so far to guarantee to humanity "the blessings of liberty and peace."

An Explanation.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown—to-day it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its' cures are marvelous. *

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

The Editor of the Times Before the Supreme Court on a Charge of Contempt.

Counsel Tenders an Explanation and an Apology—Remarks by the Judges.

Reported Specially for THE TIMES.]

Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J., and Hon. Justices Crease and Gray took their seats on the bench at the Supreme Court yesterday (Monday) at 12 o'clock.

J. C. Prevost, registrar of the court read the order.

Mr. Mills—May it please your Lordship, I appear on behalf of Mr. Templeman, the managing editor of THE TIMES, and in the first place, I wish to state that neither Mr. John Grant or Mr. J. C. McLagan are trustees of THE TIMES Newspaper Publishing Co. Mr. Grant resigned that position some three years ago. They were the provisional trustees required by the act under which the company was incorporated, but Mr. Grant some three years ago, or about three years ago, resigned his position as trustee. He has stated that in public, in the City Council and in the Local House. I should not have called your Lordship's attention to this fact were it not for a case that will be tried before your Lordship the Chief Justice on Friday next. In fact, I think it would have been much better if my learned friend, Mr. Davie, had allowed some other counsel to have called your Lordship's attention to it, but I think that the mere fact of Mr. Grant's name being mentioned in this, and the mere fact of my stating that he is no longer a trustee, having resigned that position three years ago, will not in any way prejudice your Lordships in that which will take place on Friday. In regard to Mr. McLagan I must say, in justice to him, that he is no longer connected with THE TIMES and has no interest what ever in THE TIMES at this time, nor at the time that this libel complained of appeared in the paper. In fact, I think he resigned his position three months ago.

Mr. Justice Crease—He only appeared as a trustee.

Mr. Mills—I know, my lord; but he resigned as a trustee. Mr. Templeman, at this time, is a trustee. In the next place, I wish to state that Mr. Templeman did not write the items complained of; and when they were in print he did not pay much attention to them; he did not think there was anything serious in the matter, in fact, he paid very little attention to them; but when the attention of the court was called to these items, Mr. Templeman examined the items, and he found that they did certainly cast a reflection on His Lordship, the Chief Justice, and the other judges of this bench. When he discovered that, Mr. McLagan came down to my office—

Mr. Justice Crease—Mr. Templeman.

Mr. Mills—I should say, Mr. Templeman came down to my office, and asked me whether I thought it would be right to go over and express his regret to the judges. The person who did write these items has since been discharged. I consulted with my learned friend, Mr. Hett, and I saw Mr. Justice Crease and expressed Mr. Templeman's regret for what had appeared in his paper, and stated that we were willing and anxious to make a public apology. Now, I am instructed by Mr. Templeman to express my sincere regret that these items or squibs appeared in the paper; and, on his behalf, I wish to withdraw the items in toto; and especially anything which appeared in the paper which insinuated or imputed corruption in any of the judges of this court. If Mr. Templeman had seen those items before they had appeared in print, I can assure your lordships that they would never have appeared in that paper; and I tender to you this apology. Now, if your lordships should come to the conclusion that my apology is not sufficient, I am prepared to comply with any direction or order of the court to give your Lordships a satisfactory and ample apology.

Mr. Justice Crease—Well, Mr. Mills, I think that the Chief Justice, from what he tells me now, does not wish to address himself to the matter because it is one which he was not able to attend to at the time it was brought before him personally in the court, having then a very heavy case—Reg. vs Griffin—which you know was an all absorbing case; and this matter was brought before me, I suppose, as the next senior judge, and I place myself in communication with my brother Gray. I have not had any communication with my brother Gray, and you see the learned Chief Justice separates us, so we cannot communicate privately. But we both—and I really speak for my brother Gray and the other judges as well as for myself—we both repudiated the idea of interfering with the privileges and rights of newspapers which they by law ought to have, and which, for the benefit of the public, they should have. Instead of being desirous to in any way limit their powers, our desires are to extend them as far as possibly can be to all subjects within their ken. We think it right that all public officers, all public institutions, and all matters in which the public are specially interested, and, with regard to the Court, especially to all suitors, for everyone of us may become a suitor in the Court, should be open to the honest, frank, fair animadversion and criticism, and even severe criticism, at times, if it be necessary in the interest of the public weal. But all criticism of that description must be fair and honest. And they must be true if they reflect upon individuals or upon the administration of justice, for, really, it is the administration of justice that we care for. I really do not care what anyone may say of me personally; as long as I have my own judicial conscience as a judge. When, however, the administration of justice is touched, the very foundation of the social system is in danger; and words that go into a newspaper are just like a grain of mustard seed; you do not know to what a huge size they may grow. As the lightning flashes across the continent, and from sea to sea, almost all the English-speaking nations of the world—these must take an interest in the administration of justice, just the same as we should, did we hear anything in the Anglo-Saxon states or mother country, being spoken to the detriment of the administration of justice. There is something in it which touches every eye and soul to the quick, and brings forth a natural expression of interest and opinion. In this case I have no hesitation in saying—and I do not say it offensively, I have been a great many years among you, and have seen children grow to manhood and take their part in the daily work of life—that I look upon this, if it were intentional, as a wicked, criminal libel seeing that, unless contradicted and met in an open way face to face before the public in open court, it would give the impression that the judges of this court are open to pecuniary considerations in rendering their decisions, and in giving their opinion on the subject before them. We have no desire to ferret out, and mix ourselves with the internal arrangements of newspapers generally. We do not want to interfere with them officially, at all; but it is our duty, and I assure you I have not been able, gentlemen, to rest ever since that matter was brought before me; I have felt that the public must have it from us face to face and let it be shown that there is no possible foundation of any sort for such a hideous accusation as implied in those careless words. I hope that they were merely careless words, as we are told that they were. There is no idea of vindictiveness in our minds. All we wish to say is that the administration of justice shall not be attacked unless by those whose business it is to look after it. If my own name had merely been mentioned I should just have passed it over, like water from a duck's back, borne out, as I should be, by the approval of my own conscience. Now, Mr. Templeman apologises, and withdraws this imputation, and declares that at the time, he did not know of their existence. I do not know that it is competent for us to go any further with regard to that. He says that he has discharged the man who put them in without his knowledge.

Mr. R. McManus (stepping forward and addressing the Court)—I beg your Lordship's pardon, I am the man who wrote them; I was not discharged.

Mr. Justice Crease—Who are you?

Mr. McManus—Robert McManus.

Mr. Justice Crease—Who is Robert McManus?

Mr. Theodore Davie—He is the man who wrote the articles.

Chief Justice—No name has come forward regarding the author of these articles.

Mr. Theo. Davie—He is the man who wrote the articles, and says that he has not been discharged.

Mr. McManus—I am a stranger here, my Lord, and I come here to vindicate my own name.

Mr. Mills—If this gentleman does not like the word "discharged" we will substitute the words "dispensed with his services."

Mr. McManus—I resigned because—

Mr. Justice Crease—We cannot listen to this.

Mr. McManus—I resigned, my Lord, because they only gave me starvation wages.

Mr. Theo. Davie—Before your Lordship goes on, I should like to ask my learned friend the date the party who wrote these letters was discharged.

Mr. Justice Crease (to Mr. Mills)—Is this on affidavit?

Mr. Mills—No; but Mr. Templeman will go into the box, if your Lordship pleases. He will go into the box if you are not satisfied with my word.

Mr. Justice Crease—All this ought to have been on affidavit.

Mr. Justice Gray—Mr. Mills says distinctly that if you are not satisfied with his apology, he will make it in the way that you wish.

Mr. Mills—Mr. Templeman is here, and, if your Lordship pleases, will go into the box, but I thought it better to allow Mr. Templeman to speak through myself.

Chief Justice—I would rather have said nothing about this, but I think always proceedings of this nature should be upon affidavit, in order to be placed upon record. I heard what you stated, but I supposed that it had also been stated upon affidavit. You ought to state to the Court and counsel should always come prepared with facts.

Mr. Mills—I am prepared, and that is the reason for my making my last statement. If your Lordships please, Mr. Templeman will go into the box.

Mr. Justice Gray—It appears to me we are not going to have any consultation after the apology, which is amply sufficient; nor do I agree with my learned brother the Chief Justice that the facts should appear on affidavit. A person stands before you, charged with a particular offence; either he pleads guilty, or not. If he pleads guilty, he is not called upon to make a statement upon affidavit, or anything of the kind. I think myself, that in the ends of justice, the facts should be reduced to writing, and published in the paper, and that the apology which is made to the Court should be published distinctly before that public which heard and read the charges in that paper. That is, that the contradiction should follow the channel of the charge. In the second place, I think it is valuable, because it shows that, as proprietor of the paper that he was not conscious of that going in, and not only that, but you have stated on his behalf that if he had been at all aware of its being put in, he would certainly have prevented it, and nothing of that kind or description would have gone into the paper with his knowledge. I do not think it possible, when you take all these things together, that anything further can be done. It is not necessary to enlarge upon the impropriety of any editor of a newspaper, or a newspaper endeavoring to impugn the honest and fair administration of justice; it is not a personal matter with the court, but is one in which every individual member of the community is interested, and they ought to feel, every man, that when that trial may come before the court, or before the full court, that although we may differ in legal opinion we do not differ in our duty of conscientiously discharging our duty in the administration of justice. And when the editor of that paper tells us that he would not have permitted that thing to go in with his knowledge, and that he has discharged or "dispensed with the services—to use a more polite term—of the writer of the articles, there is an end of it, and I do not see any occasion for going further. It is quite a personal matter, if the gentleman who wrote the notice did so erroneously, or did not intend to convey such a meaning, it is open to him, in another way, by his own channel, to give an explanation, but not before this court. I say it is not the mere individual who puts an article in a paper, but the man who is responsible who comes before the court. A little printers' devil may put an article in, and the man who is responsible may come before the court, and say that he did not know anything about it until he saw it in the paper. If he can be excused merely by saying that somebody else did it, that would be a very serious matter to consider, as far as the administration of justice is concerned. But when he comes forward, and says boldly, "not only I did not approve of it, but I have discharged the man who wrote it," and assures the court that nothing further of that nature shall appear in the paper, my own idea is that it should be plainly put in the paper so that wherever the charge was read so will the apology be; because it is not the sentiment of the editor of that paper but the sentiment of the public, because the editor of a paper endeavors to follow as much as he can, the sentiment of the public; and when he comes forward and says not only that it is not his own, but that it is not the sentiment of the public, and in accordance with that, he apologises and expresses his deep regret, I do not, myself see much more to be done. We have not had any opportunity of consultation, but this expresses my views plainly and distinctly.

Mr. Mills—If I had wished to deny the responsibility, then I should have placed the facts on affidavit; but he desires to publish the facts and an apology.

Mr. Justice Gray—I would rather look to the editor of a paper as being responsible. I always like to go to the biggest man. Now, the editor is the proper man and he should be careful that improper writings are not put in. It is no excuse for an utterly irresponsible man to put something in the paper, and for the editor to say, "I did not know it."

Mr. Mills—I always understood that His Lordship the Chief Justice held those sentiments. I have heard him express them.

Mr. Justice Gray—This imputation does not rest upon the Chief Justice; he is as much above it as daylight is to darkness.

Mr. Justice Crease—The only penalty that we shall impose upon you will be the payment of costs.

Mr. Mills—I didn't know that there was any counsel on the other side. It is not on the notes of anyone.

Mr. Justice Crease—No; I have looked at the Letchmere-Charlton case, and have not seen it expressed there.

Mr. Justice Gray—It was a case of a few shillings costs.

Mr. Justice Crease—I do not know what it is, but whatever the costs are, they will be paid. There must be costs, for we should not have known it had it not been for Mr. Davie bringing the matter before the court.

Mr. T. Davie—I cannot see how any question of costs arises. I am not a party to this proceeding. I have merely called the attention of the court to this matter. But I have already asked by learned friend one thing; and that is, the date when this man was discharged.

Chief Justice—You can ask that out of court.

Mr. Davie—I think that is a matter that may possibly throw some light upon this business.

Chief Justice—If more light is required.

Mr. Justice Gray—I agree with the Chief Justice. I do not think that is a question that ought to be put. I do not believe in dealing with subordinates; I try to take the head of a department always.

Mr. Davie—I should like to know the date this man was discharged.

Mr. Justice Crease—We do not ask it.

Chief Justice—We do not want to have it. Now, the matter is over.

Mr. Mills—Yes.

Chief Justice—Very well. I have not done so before, but I will mention two cases—one in the Morning Advertiser and another in the Times, the London Times, of a misprint in the case of the Morning Advertiser by the substitution of one consonant for another, by which a very gross and indecent libel was passed upon the inhabitants of Buckingham Palace, being the Queen and Prince Consort. It was explained, with many apologies, that this was the act of a printer, but whether wilful or accidental, was not enquired, but it was the act of a printer at all events. Many years after that, the Times in publishing the reports of the speeches in the House of Commons, which I suppose are at least of equal dignity with the words and acts and motives of this court or any judge of it, and the House of Commons being a body which is at least as jealous of its dignity, and has as keen a sense of its public utility, that its public utility should be considered incorrupt and proper in all its members, was, on one or two occasions in the course of the same week, shockingly misrepresented, or, rather, misprinted. Though it certainly appeared that the publishers themselves, personally, were innocent of any knowledge of these changes, which, of course, they asserted to the last degree, the speech in which they occurred was changed, and there were thereby introduced really indecent, vulgar libels. The Times did what it could; it discharged the printer himself; in fact, it discharged all whom it had reason to think could throw any light upon the subject; but the House of Commons, although exceedingly jealous of its privileges, being made acquainted with these facts, took no further proceedings against the publishers of the Times. I think those cases I have mentioned are not unlike the present. There is a gross libel upon the administration of justice, without doubt, but the manager comes forward and says that he has done everything he could do, and that he would have prevented its publication had he known it; and, knowing that he has done everything he can, and has apologized, I understand that the judgment of the court should be, although it is not proper to come from my mouth, that he be simply discharged from any further attendance, upon payment of costs, if any. Have you anything to say, Mr. Davie?

Mr. Davie—No, my Lord.

The steamer Princess Louise arrived from Fraser River this afternoon with yesterday's mails and a number of passengers. She also had 48 head of cattle and 148 sheep for Messrs. Van Volkenburgh & Co. on board. The Louise did not arrive last last night as the train was late getting in and before the mouth of the Fraser was reached it was too dark to come over the sand heads.

The New Opera.

Gilbert and Sullivan's new opera "The Yeoman of the Guard," which was played in Victoria a few weeks ago by the Emma Abbott company for the first time on the Pacific coast is proving a success in San Francisco. It was placed on the boards at the Baldwin on Tuesday night before one of the largest audiences ever gathered in that theater. A dispatch says: There were 150 people on the stage, with magnificent scenic effects. Hundreds were turned away. The performance was pronounced a brilliant artistic success and is down for a long run.

Fishery Regulations.

An Ottawa dispatch states that new fishery regulations for British Columbia have been adopted, those of 1878 being rescinded. Fishing for salmon by means of nets or other apparatus without permission of the Minister of Marine is prohibited. This does not apply to Indians when the fish is for their own use by other means than spearing. The meshes of nets shall be at least six inches. Any extension of the method of drifting with salmon nets shall be confined to tidal waters. Drifting nets shall not be so used as to obstruct more than one-third of any river. No fishing for salmon between 6 o'clock on Saturday morning and Monday is permitted. All boats are to be registered under penalty of forfeiture. The Minister of Fisheries shall determine the number of boats and the seines or nets to be used in any waters of the province. Trout fishing is prohibited from the 15th October to the 15th March, inclusive, but the Indians may catch them them for their own use.

Victoria Athletic Club.

Members of the Victoria Athletic Club held a practice in their rooms last night under the supervison of Fred P. Gouge, their able manager. The young men went through their athletic exercises in a manner which received the applause of a number of invited guests. Their performance on next Friday evening in Philharmonic Hall will be a credit to the Club and will prove that Victoria has a number of athletes second to none in the Province.

New Church at Nanaimo.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was dedicated at Nanaimo on Sunday last. Rev. R. Jamieson, of New Westminster, conducted the morning service. The afternoon service was conducted by Rev. James Miller. At the evening service Rev. P. McF. McLeod, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city, officiated and delivered a splendid sermon which touched the hearts of the large congregation. The new edifice was built at a cost of four thousand dollars and is a credit to the pastor, congregation and city of Nanaimo.

Suicide of a Captain.

Capt. Fred Rink hanged himself in San Francisco on Friday last. Rink was at one time captain of the bark D. C. Murray, and had sailed out of San Francisco on various vessels for many years. He had been out of employment for a long time, and it is probable that his suicide was due to despondency caused by poverty and advancing age. From the position in which the body was found it was concluded by the morgue officials that the deceased had climbed upon the limb, adjusted the rope and jumped off.

Art Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fine portraits now on exhibition in Hastie & Lockart's and Mr. Leask's, Government street. Your portrait will be done in any kind of work, either in oil, water color, India ink or crayon postelle. French Burera porcelain with frames, for $10. The work stands unrivalled on the Pacific coast and for quality we lead the van. Persons wishing portraits of their family would do well to give Bigger a call. Nothing could be more appropriate for a Christmas present or a New Year's gift. These pictures can be enlarged from any kind of a picture. Orders left at 43 Blanchard Street. (3t) G. W. BIGGER.

An Evening Paper.

The Winnipeg Sun, the evening paper of the Manitoba capital, comes out with a challenge to its local contemporaries to compare circulation. The Sun, with a daily issue of 3,000 copies, claims to be ahead of all competitors, and produces the affidavits of its manager and pressman in support of the statement. At all events, the growth of the Sun has been phenomenal, and it furnishes another illustration of the superiority of evening papers. The telegraphic service has become so perfect of late years that the news can be flashed over the world in a few minutes, so that if anything really important occurs the evening papers generally get it. Besides the difference in time is in their favor.

Lange & Co.'s Guessing Match.

Four valuable prizes, consisting of two Gold Watches, one Silver Tea Set and Tray and one Diamond Ring will be given away. For every $5 in cash invested in a purchase in our store from this date to the 1st January, 1889, the purchaser will be entitled to one chance in the above guessing match. We have made the mistake in overstocking ourselves this season in every branch in the jewelry line, fine goods particularly, and have chosen this method to turn them into cash regardless of profits, giving our customers the above advantage in return. Notice of the distribution of the above prizes will be given. *

Making Pottery.

The Columbian says: "The pottery lately erected by Manahan Bros., the well-known brickmakers, is now in running order and the first make of pottery was turned out this morning. Everything worked satisfactorily and the work turned out was fully up to the expected standard. Some pottery milk basins and several flower pots, well and neatly finished and burned to a turn, were the first results, and if the same success attends the next burnings, and there is no reason to expect otherwise, the foundation of an extensive business has been laid. Manahan Bros. have orders on hand for over 2000 pots, and if these are satisfactory to the purchasers additional orders, which will keep the pottery in constant operation, will be placed.

Victoria Choral Society.

A rehearsal of Judas Maccabeaus and several secular choruses takes place to-morrow evening. Prof. Sharp has the chorus well in hand and with the remaining three or four rehearsals will have them to a very high state of perfection. The society has now a membership of 70 and all possessed of good voices. The performance of Judas Maccabeaus will certainly be a treat to musical people of Victoria. No pains has been spared by Prof. Sharpe on choruses and soloists to make the musical part a success. All the arrangements have been completed by committee of management for the concert. Tickets for the concert can be had from any of the members and seats can be reserved at Messrs. Lombard & Co.'s store on and after the 10th December. All members of the society are requested to be present at to-morrow evening's rehersal.

BROWN THE HATTER.

Closes His Store and Leaves for the American Side.

For some time past a man named Brown has been engaged in making hats in stores on Government street. He first commenced business near the old Hook and Ladder House and recently moved to Heathorn's building opposite Trounce Alley. The business of hat making was not profitable and Brown became financially involved. He owed $1800 to eastern merchants and a few small accounts in this city. Yesterday morning the shutters were not taken down and it was evident last evening that he was missing from the city. It is supposed that he crossed the Sound and is in Portland by this time. The authorities were aware that he was disposing of and shipping a portion of his stock to Portland where it is said, he will meet his wife.

SKIPPED FROM VANCOUVER

J. W. Gunn, Book-Keeper of the Vancouver World, Decamps.

A telegram was received in this city this afternoon announcing the departure from Vancouver of J. W. Gunn, book-keeper and one of the stock-holders and incorporators of the Vancouver World. Gunn decamped with about $600 belonging to the World, on which journal he was the trusted book-keeper. It was thought that he left Vancouver yesterday afternoon on the steamship Danube. When she arrived at the outer wharf at 10 o'clock a search was made on the vessel and enquiries from the officers elicited the fact that only one passenger was allowed on board. The telegraph office was used and it was discovered that Gunn crossed the Sound on the steamer Premier which sailed from Vancouver last night. Gunn was employed on the Kamloops Sentinel and Vancouver Herald previous to becoming a shareholder in the Vancouver World. He is a young man and always bore a good reputation during his career in this Province, and his friends are naturally much humiliated at his conduct.

CARIBOO'S WEALTH.

The Famous Claim in which Cariboo Cameron Made a Fortune.

A rich strike was made in the celebrated Cameron claim at Cariboo on December 3rd, 1862. From Mr. W. M. Halpenny who worked in the claim we glean the following interesting account of the find: At 10:30 a. m. on the 3rd of December, 26 years ago, I was engaged in the Cameron mine and hauled up with a ten gallon keg, half full of dirt, $65 in course gold. We had dumped out $204 the night before and did not know of it until we found the gold in the keg in the morning. We run to the dump and witnessed a beautiful sight. A lot of fine and coarse gold was embedded in the frozen dirt and the miners stood gazing at it, unable to pick out a cent. When I saw rich prospects of course I thought there would be no difficulty in finding another claim for myself. I prospected for over five years after helping to find the Cameron claim before I made one dollar. The morning of the discovery was as bright as yesterday, only two and a half feet of snow covered the ground. Robert Stevenson of Chilliwhack owned a full share in the Cameron claim. Richard Rivers, one of the old partners, was hoisted out of the shaft and we washed seventy-five cents in gold off his gum boots. I hope to hear of some good quartz strikes that will compare with the rich strike of twenty-six years ago which has been stamped on my memory and takes me back in imagination to the good old days of mining in Cariboo.

FIRE THIS MORNING.

The Rock Bay House Destroyed by Fire.

At 3 o'clock this morning Officer Levin was on duty at the C. P. N. wharf and noticed a bright glare in the direction of the Esquimalt road between the two bridges. He ran to the telephone office and gave the alarm. At the same time Officer Abel turned in an alarm from the box at the corner of John and Government streets. The Deluge engine, hook and ladder truck and Tiger hose reel were on their way to the scene in a few minutes. The engine took water from the hydrant in front of Mr. W. T. Drake's house and a stream was first thrown on Messrs. Spratt & Gray's large machine shops, which were in imminent danger. After wetting down the roof and sides of these buildings the stream was turned on the burning house, the Rock Bay saloon. The fire was making good headway when water was thrown on it and the firemen worked hard to keep it from causing any damage to surrounding property. In two hours the place was a mass of smoking ruins. The building was owned by Hon. J. H. Turner and was occupied by Ross Ferguson, formerly one of the proprietors of the Regent Saloon. The building was occupied for some years by James Ferguson and was insured in the Royal Insurance Company for $1000. The stock was insured in the London, Lancashire & Globe for $600. Mr. Ferguson says he left two small fires in the building when he closed up at midnight. He considered everything safe when he locked up the place. The building was very old and burned briskly for a short time.

Young Peoples' at Home.

The "At Home" given by the Young Peoples' Society of the First Presbyterian Church in the rooms of the Y. M. C. Association last evening, was a most pleasant and successful affair. The rooms were tastefully decorated with evergreens, Chinese lanterns, etc., which gave them a cheerful, holiday appearance. The arrangement of the room was good, the company being drawn together in groups and those who were strangers to each other made acquainted. The programme was a good one and admirably carried out as the numerous encores will testify. Altogether the Young Peoples' Society have great reason to feel proud of the manner which the first "At Home" of the series to be given in the Association rooms, was carried out. The first piece on the programme of the evening was a song by Miss Jamieson who sang "Within a mile of Edinburgh Toon;" for encore she gave "Weel May the Keel Row." Miss McKenzie followed with a recitation, "Curfew Bell," which was well received. Mr. Brown sang the "Storm King," and for an encore gave a humorous Scotch song. A quartette followed with "Homeward Bound" very nicely. The singers were Miss Stevens and Miss Netherby, Messrs Brown and Ledingham. Refreshments were served by the young ladies and gentlemen of the committee, little conversazione tables being distributed through the hall for the occasion. The second part of the programme opened with a humorous recitation by Mr. Jones, who for an encore gave "Asleep at the Switch." A quartette by Grant, Meston, Ledingham and Brown followed, which was also encored. Miss Netherby recited the "Husking of the Corn," and for an encore rendered "In the Trenches before Sebastopol." "God Save the Queen" brought the programme and most enjoyable evening to a close. Miss Robins Stevens played the accompaniments in her usual talented manner on a fine piano, kindly furnished for the occasion by Mr. Peters.

NEW WESTMINSTER NEWS.

Charge of Murderous Assault—Perjury and Abduction.

Special to THE TIMES.

New Westminster, Dec. 4—The case of the Queen vs. Cooper for murderous assault, which came for hearing in the District Court yesterday morning, is still going on and is developing a number of side issues of a serious nature. The 16 year old son of Basustow swore out an information against his father for perjury, and allegations have been made by the counsel defending Basustow that Mrs. Cooper endeavored to abduct Basustow's daughter for immoral purposes.

The thermometer is 56 deg. in the shade, with possibilities of rain.

Wedding Bells.

The wedding ceremony of Mr. J. H. Carthew, manager of the North Pacific Canning Company, and Miss Carrie E. Pratt, took place at the residence of Mrs. A. Allen, Rupert street, last evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Reid in the presence of a few friends. Miss Nellie Parks was bridesmaid and Mr. Alex. G. McCandless supported the groom. After partaking of a wedding supper the young couple proceeded on board the Yosemite and left for Vancouver and a few days will be spent before proceeding to Nanaimo and Comox. The TIMES extends its congratulations to the estimable and popular couple.

British Columbian Killed.

A man accidentally met his death by a fall from a railroad bridge near Puyallup, W. T., last Friday night, an account of which has heretofore not appeared in print.

On the evening in question Chas. Wilson, formerly employed as cook at the Brunswick restaurant of Seattle, and James Cain, late of British Columbia, were crossing the railroad bridge over the Puyallup river, near Sumner, when they came to a place where a cross tie had been removed for the purpose of unloading rock, when the two were unexpectedly precipitated over twenty-five feet upon a pile of rocks below.

Workmen in the neighborhood were called to the spot by the cries of one of the men, being in a semi-conscious condition. The men were taken to a neighboring hop-house and Dr. Stafford, of Sumner, was called, but found Cain before his injury, but Wilson's wounds are not considered dangerous. Cain is said to have a daughter living in Kansas City.
